

Members of the Memphis Dixon Hughes family gathered together on Friday, November 9, 2007, to volunteer at Youth Villages, a leading provider of help to children with serious emotional and behavioral problems. The group spent the day painting the cottages that house some of the youth at the Bartlett campus. A sense of pride and accomplishment was felt by all for doing something positive and making a difference for the children and their families.

